compete in award categories judged by independent experts within the industry. "Each award category had a four-member judging team of systems integrators, manufacturers, members of the trade press and/or industry consultants to score and determine the TechHome Mark of Excellence Awards Finalists and Winners," said CEA Senior Manager Patrice Scheyer.

Last year, eLifespaces was also awarded CEA's Best Integrated Security Project, Best Distributed Audio/Video Project, and the Ultimate Home of the Year. Fabian believes that being awarded these honors signifies their company's commitment to customer service and experience, setting them apart from other businesses in the young industry. Over the years, electronics have become complex and customers' options have become much more varied, but eLifespaces' focus on personal attention remains the same.

In addition to their winning entries with Mark of Excellence, the company also captured the Gold for "Best Before and After Project" in Electronic House Magazine's 2009 Homes of the Year [www.electronichouse.com].
