[CHARLESTON, SC – 12/11/2008] The staff of eLifespaces received great joy this year in helping Debi's Kids. After raiding the warehouse and pooling of personal resources, cash and electronic toys were graciously donated to the children of this charity. "Each day, it seems like we are confronted with bad news. And each day we face more and more troubling economic news. It was very heart-warming that our staff and company thought of giving to others and to the charities that serve our communities." said Fred Fabian, eLifespaces' President.

Please help Debi's Kids and the Salvation Army Angel Tree reach the goal of 1,000 toys in a day. "If everybody does a little bit, it's amazing what can be done," said Ki Ki Cooper of the Salvation Army.

Stop by 2126 Charlie Hall Boulevard in West Ashley and make a donation. You can also donate new, unwrapped toys inside local WalMarts through Tuesday December 16th. Bins are clearly marked in each store.

About Debi's Kids

Organized by WCSC's on-air anchor, Debi Chard, Debi's Kids origin dates back to 1993. The group's principal interest was to bring joy to the lives of children in need that had no other means to receive toys at Christmas. Over the decades, a strategic alliance was forged with the Salvation Army and their "Angel Tree" program in assisting area families.
